The cause of the fire is not yet known traders suspect that the fire was caused by a fault on the ZESCO transformer at the market. Some of the marketeers who lost their goods in the fire say that the fire started around 19:00hrs in the evening of May 19, 2020 and started sweeping through the shops uncontrollably. Meanwhile, Mongu central market traders have expressed disappointment over the poor response by the Mongu municipal council fire brigade. Sources at the municipal council disclosed that the fire brigade department was not available to assist in the fire fight while some council officials referred all queries to the Mamba airport corporation fire department as they were the responders.

RULING PARTY ACCUSED OF LAND GRABBING

Chilanga residents have accused the ruling patriotic front of grabbing community land from the residents.

Speaking with One Love Radio, community representative pastor Musoja states that he is convinced that the people demarcating the land are PF officials as they are being accompanied by the police.

He has explained that only the ruling party can have such support from the police to carry out illegal activities.

Meanwhile Patriotic Front ward chairman Dickson Zulu has denied the allegations and has said the people grabbing the land are not yet known as he was denied access when he went on the ground.

And Area member of parliament Maria Langa has told One Lover radio news that she is not aware of the happenings in her constituency.

MPC CUTS MONITORY POLICY RATE BY 225 POINTS

In the face of COVID-19 pandemic, the MPC cut the monetary Policy Rate by 225 basis points to 9.25%, despite the projected path for inflation being higher than the medium-term target range of 6-8%.

BOZ governor Danny Kalyalya says this is intended to mitigate the adverse impact of COVID-19 pandemic on the financial sector stability, economic activity, and ultimately on people's lives and livelihoods. He noted that, in the absence of urgent and appropriate policy response, prospects are likely to significantly deteriorate, as the economy is projected to record a recession in 2020.

The cut in the Policy Rate therefore also complements the broader set of measures the Bank has already undertaken. These include the Targeted Medium-Term Refinancing Facility, prudential measures taken to ease the flow of credit to businesses and households, and scaled up use of digital financial services. The governor has called for concerted efforts and strengthened collaboration among all stakeholders to effectively deal with the COVID-19 shock and its effects. In this context, implementation of fiscal and structural reforms that deliver inclusive and sustainable growth remains an urgent imperative.

"Decisions on the Policy Rate will continue to be guided by inflation forecasts, outcomes, identified risks, including those associated with the COVID-19 pandemic". He added.

A member of the public has called on Church Mother Bodies to counsel the clergy before granting them licenses. Speaking during an interview with One Love radio, the citizen says if the clergy undergoes counseling he or she will know how to handle a church. The Citizen adds that if church mother bodies ensures that licenses are granted to right people gazetted to open churches, issues of fake prophets will end and women in particular will not be misled which has caused a lot of broken marriages.

TOURISM

SIOMA NGWEZI AND NGONYE FALLS NATIONAL PARK

Covering 5,000km² of Kalahari woodland, Sioma Ngwezi is Zambia's third-largest national park. Tucked away in the southwestern corner of the country, it's bordered by the Kwando River to the west (which also forms Zambia's border with Angola) and Namibia to the south.

Once heavily affected by cross-border poaching, Sioma Ngwezi is seeing something of a revival. This has been made possible by several factors, including a slowly improving local infrastructure, good tourism numbers to nearby Livingstone and, most importantly, the park's inclusion in the Kavango Zambezi Transfrontier Conservation Area. Combined with the impressive Ngonye Falls National Park further north, this is one of Zambia's up-and-coming regions and a steady return in wildlife numbers makes it an exciting prospect for adventurous travellers.

Sioma Ngwezi has a history of excellent giraffe sightings and although wildlife is still scarce and relatively skittish, small populations of Zambia's other species still occur and are growing, including leopard, lion and spotted hyena. Water is also scarce, and so the best wildlife viewing is just after the summer rains, when the animals congregate around the drying pools. Safari operators are running guided tours and camping/walking safaris into the area, for those in search of complete isolation and a truly remote wilderness experience.

At just 25 metres high, Ngonye Falls may not be as grand as Victoria Falls, but what it lacks in stature it makes up in its impressive volume. There's also the chance to swim, fish, kayak or go white-water rafting, and all this far from the much busier Livingstone, a bumpy four-hour drive away.

The best time to visit Sioma Ngwezi and Ngonye Falls national parks is from May to early June, just after the rainy season. Many of Sioma Ngwezi dambos (wetland pools) will still have water and it's the most prolific period for wildlife viewing. The falls at Ngonye (about 120km further north) are also at their best while the river is high. Unfortunately, the road from Livingstone is heavily potholed for long stretches, but with brand new tarmac laid further north, there's hope that this southern section of the M10 will be resurfaced soon, making the journey from Livingstone much easier. Driving in Sioma Ngwezi is strictly 4x4 only, and there are no facilities at all inside the park.

ZNFU CONGRATULATES FAMERS

The Zambia national farmers union has thanked all the farmers for producing 3,387,469 metric tonnes of maize to make Zambia food secure.

ZNFU president Jervis Zimba says he recognizes the challenges the farmers went through last season of the high cost of inputs and the uneven distribution of rain, however this not with-standing they rose against diversity.

Mr Zimba has further urged the farmers to now focus on the marketing aspects, adding that all the off takers especially the food reserve agency should pay farmers on time.

ONE LOVE RADIO EVENTS

One Love Radio launches One Love café

This is a program that has been created to present artists with a platform to perform.

We have seen in the recent past that radio has had a lot of playback being presented to the listeners and little to no live music being broadcasted.

Well One Love café brings you live music being presented by different artists.

It features all artists from groups to solo artists. The Café is a place for one to express their creativity to the listeners.

AGENTS OF HOPE ACAPPELLA

The One Love Café is a program that cuts across all the ages as it provides different types of music from Acapella to Hip hop, from Rhumba to Choral music to praise and worship. So one would not be bored as the variety that is presented on this show makes sure everyone is catered for.

Apart from airing the program live on radio with different presenters, the Café is also being streamed live on social media platforms; you can catch it on One Love Radio Zambia Facebook page.

You have the luxury to either listen on radio or watch the live stream on Facebook. The world is moving to social media as the current state of affairs with the COVID 19 has prevented artist from hosting concerts and all. Thus One Love Radio provides an already available audience for the artist to present their content.

This is also a good opportunity for groups and up and coming artists that lack exposure to get much needed exposure presented on this forum.

The one Love Café is strictly for live performances and no playback is allowed so as to make sure artists rehearse and bring top quality music. The station has seen in the recent years that artists have been dependent on playback more than using there God given gifts to preach the word of God. Perfection is what we are aiming at bringing to the listeners and watchers of One Love Radio.
